FRANCE IN CHICAGO.

THE subscriber, who has been for a long time engaged as the keeper of a Market House at the corner of Wells and Madison streets, takes this opportunity to inform the public that he has removed from his former stand, and has opened a Market Stall At the corner of Washington and Market sts., The quicker way to learn a language, is to have an opportunity to speak it. M. Pedelupe de Riviere, well known in this city as a French and Italian teacher, being, in advance, sure to be patronized by the ladies and gentlement of Chicago, announces that he has opened a French Bourding House, in which no other language than French will be spoken. Each one boarding in his house will have the advantage of speaking said language.

M. Pedelupe will furnish Boarders with lodgings if they desire it; also, to give facility to those who, being in the city, wish daily to converse, he announces that he will receive boarders for one meal only, that being dinner, after which they will be entitled to one hour's couversation.

His prices for board are the same as in other boardhun houses. He announces also, that he has opened a school for young ladies from 10 to 11 o'clock, A. M., each day. He has alse his evening school from half past 8 till half past 9, He also continues to give private lessons.

We have received at the principal of money. We have received at the principal effect within the past year, certificates of more than 35,000 cures performed by Myrrick's Pills and Plasters, over ten thousand of them were considered beyond all hope. They are the changed and best pills now known. Each pill is beautifully coated with pure white sugar. Each bit contains 30 pills; a smaller number is required is a dose than of any other pill known, their operation being so certain, thorough, yet mid, that all who use them recommend them. Owing to the immense popularity and gigantic scales of these pills, some cuprincipled persons — have make something they call Sugar t oated Pills, and we understand some are for sale in this part of the country. We have also observed moller pill floating around the country, called the ladar Vegetable pill, made without doubt to sell for Benick's Vegetable pills—look out for frauds, sane these men attach the word Dicory to their names to give them the appearance of respectability. Always ask for Merrick's Sugar Contest Pills and get them or new. Our pills sell for 25 cts. per box, with full directions. Our Plasters 183 ets.

MARTIN P. Turres Miscellany.

A FANTASTIC TALE.

BY HORACE MAYHEW.

We must now welcome our poor wanderer back to his native village. He is as sanguine as ever. Euthusiasm, with many people, is a plant that dies as soon as it is blown and with others it is an evergreen: in Karl's bosom it fourishel as strongly as ever, and had struck such deep root into his nature, that to attempt to tear it out would have at once turned the fair garden of his hopes in a wilderness.

Since his travels, Karl had become a greet size, the was invited to every little official bouse, to recount, over the dinner or the supportable, the wonderful things he had seen in distant lands. Karl was not destitute of inagination—in condicion an invention with the nicrest touch of probability, on as to make it pass for a fact—and he had the good serule on to stray to far beyond discremin, gleen another traveler, who had feen over the same ground as hisself, was present. The support of the sup one in the whole world.

His fentures betrayed most openly what he was suffering within. Anon, a ray of sunshine would shoot across his cheeks and illumine their paleness; and then a dark cloud would glide forebodingly over his face, like a mask, for several minutes. This would be torn away by the merest touch and all would be bright affain. But see, what is the matter with Karl? He turns deadly pale—he gasps for air—he shakes from head to foot—his hands drop convulsively by his side. Onick—ive drop convulsively by his side. Quick—give him a chair—or else he will fall. Ab! he has dropped senseless on the window-sill. Poor fellow! what can have shaken him but the trembling Wilbelmina is by his side, and lights his pipe afresh. He soon recovers, but only to alart frantically to his feet as soon as he is conscious where he is.

"Wilbelmina!" he exclaims, "we must part—this very moment—it is ordained by the finger of Fate."

"What means this?' inquired the frightened girl. "Surely thou art mad!"

"This ordeal is enough to make me so."—She hid her face with her hands whilst he raved: "Listen, Wilhelmina, I dreamed thou wert the pattern of thy sex." I used for days, and long watchful nights, to ponder on thy wert the pattern of thy sex. I used for days, and long watchful nights, to pender on thy head and fancied it the loved dwelling-place of all that was children-like and pure. I thought it was the mansion of angels' thoughts—the dome of a saint's mind—the heaven that arched over a fairy land of innocence and Beauty. Pool that I have been to dispet the charm!" and he smote his forehead violently for a few minutes.

"Wilhelma!" he raved anew, "I have pinned my destiny to the infallibility of one noble science. Phrenology contains truths so unerring that it would be madness to doubt them. Its laws are so sure that certain punishment falls on him who has the temerity to break them. I have weighed thy head, Wilhelmins, in its balance, and have found it wanting. It is written on thy skull that we meet no more."

"Impossible!" shrieked the disconsolate frauline, throwing herself round his stubborn meck. "It must be so-for learn, tremble, thou hast the fierce organ of Destrutiveness. How my poor heart knocked against the bump, when first my fingers discovered it; it will never survive the blow," and he sobbed aloud. "Kart, this is wenk—this is unmanly—Thou shalt not leave me."

"Shalt not!" and he stamped the floor.—"Why, I tell thee, thou hast the organ of Combativeness!"

"At cannot be!" parried the poor defence-less girl, too anxious to ward off every cruel thurst her lover was making at her.

"Oh! Karl, Karl, this is most cruel," she said, struggling, and clinging, as for her life, to him. "Thou wilt drive me to confess most

OPINION OF THE PRESS.

We have read with perfect indifference, the various certificates of the efficacy of this article, that have appeared daily in our columns, for the past yearbeing unusually skeptical as to the wonderful effects said to be produced by such 'patent' compounds—But having made a trial os our own boots—we care and are free to acknowledge that we have not had our feet at all damp since we applied it. It not only preserves the leather and readers it impervious to water, but also makes 'old stegas' so pliable that they can be worn without damage to corns. Try it your-selves.—Mil. REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF THE

The following is a brief abstract of the Report of the Secretary of the Treasury, showing, however, a clear view of the state of the public finances:

Receipts for the year ending 30th June, 1850, On hand 30th June, 1849, $47,421,748 90 2,184,964 28 of $865,996.

The expenditures for 1852 show a heavy increase. That original of the late war. Mr. Cogwis, by dividing the time from 1843 to 1852 (inclusive) into three periods of three years each—before the war, during the war, and subsequent to the war—finds the third period, 125,106,754 18.

Averaging 41,702,251 39
It thus appears that these largely increased expenditures commenced in the years 1845-6, and in consequence of the war with Mexico; and it will be shown that by reason of our new acquisitions of territory, and the fulfillment of the obligations of the Government, third period, 125,106,754 18 resulting from that war, a continuance of these expenditures will be required for an nite period. The excess of expenditures for the seven years ending June 1st, 1852, during and sub-sequent to the Mexican war, are thus made up:

Excess of the army Department, 882,235 745 Navy Department, Direct pensions, Installments and interest 2,723,141 paid Mexico, Payment of claims against 16.388.396 Mexico, 2,089,578 13.387,541

The Greeks, in their temples, sought to give a natural form to their ideal conceptions f Peauty rather than religion. The Parthe non was an attempt to embody this sentiment, and its dedication to Minerva an after-thought It was an object of, and not a place for, wor-

In the awful and mysterious temples of Egypt, with their heavy and frowning proportions, their dim chambers, where, amid massive columns, light hardly penetrated; with sphynxes on every hand, on whose stony lips rested everlasting silence and mystery, in those temples was symbolized the dark and terrible theology of the people. In this connection, the lecturer made some very elequent remarks the entered on the day of the destruction of upon the architectural monuments of that dim, mysterious land, where, before other nations of antiquity were born, Art, Science and Civilization had grown old. They were the best records of the people by whom they were reared; and it was not impossible that, through a knowledge of the hieroglyphics by which they were covered, the whole dim past might be reproduced and made to pass before our eyes as in life. These monuments possessed, in as triking degree, a characteristic common to those of all ancient nations. They symbolized God and immortality; side by side, to the subject, and, among other things, says: this day, stood Temple and Tomb, and these alone had survived smid the wreck of ages, while every other work of man's hand had

The Revolt at Aleppo Overcome -Great Buttle.

The last letter from Constantinople gave us intelligence from Alleppo of the 2d ult. The situation in which things were then placed was such that a crisis was in imminent. It has taken place, and the authority of the Sultan has been re-established by a vigorous blow. It will be seen by the following letter from Constantinopole of the 20th alt. that Abdul Medial. stanticople of the 20th ult., that Abdul Medjid has obtained two great successes at the two extremities of his empire, in Syria and in Bosnia. In one place he combats feudality, is the other fanaticism, and he has triumphed in both see, to the profit of true civilization.

I avail myself of an English boat to inform you of a terrible chastisement inflicted on the insurgents at Aleppo. On the evening of the 7th ult. Kerim Pacha invited the principal chiefs of the insurgents to come to him. They chiefs of the insurgents to come to him. They accepted his invitation, persuaded that the lear offresh disturbances would make them respected. Kerim Pacha had them placed under arrest. The insurgents finding their chiefs did not return, rus'ed to arms, and came in number about 10,000, and insolently demanded their liberation. The Ottoman General expect

The lecture of Rev. Mr. Richardson on the subject of Architecture, before the Young Men's Association, last (Thursday) evening, was listened to by a large and gratified audidence. We were so unfortunate as not to hear the opening remarks of the lecturer, but what we did hear convinced us that he had profoundly studied his subject.

His definition of true Art, as exhibited in Architecture, was very just, and illustrated in the happing terms of physical proportion, but give expression to a corresponding metable of the country and to rebuild the three churches which were burnt.

which were burnt, The Sultan, who always leans towards in dulgout measures has been compelled on this occasion to do violence to his feelings, and to show by severe repression that those who, through their fanaticism, wish, by organizing vast conspiracies, to intimidate him and make him abandon-his principles of religious tole-rance, will never succeed. The Sovereign has shown to Europe by this blow how much he has at heart the interest of his Christian sub-

Accounts received yesterday from Omer Pacha, announce the complete defeat of the Bos-nian insurgents, in two battles at Bozowina and at Zwornik. It is known that in that and at Zwornik. It is known that in that Province the authority of the Sultan has been set at defiance by the Beys, who wished to preserve their feudal rights, which have been abolished by Tanzimet. Thus, on two distant points of the Otaman Empire, insurrection has been brought about by two distinct causes. In Syria, it was fountiers which recard its

In Syria, it was fanaticism which reared its head; in Bosnia, feudality.

The Arab Emirs, like the Beys, met their death by wishing to make Turkey retrograde 50 years. This fortunate termination to these disturbances is a good angury for the reign of the Sultan Abdul Medjid; his authority will be strengthened by it, and as it is he who is now the defender of the principles of tolerance and civil equality, Turkey is called now to make

The Boston Chronotype has a leading article giving an account of a recent visit of its editor to Mr. Paine, of Worcester, the alleged discoverer of a new Hydro-Electric Light, The writer, let us say, is competent to speak on

When Mr. Paine's discovery was first announ ed, while we conceded its importance, if real, we expressed great distrust of it from the manner of its announcement. From the succeeding publications of those who professed to how competing of it and for these competing of its and for these competings of its and for the competing of its announcement. ed to know something of it, and from those of Mr. Paine himself, our distrust was increased, and, in fact, settled down into pretty determ ed skepticism, which was confirmed by the report of a certain "Scienti a Committee."— Indeed, we entertained a much more decided opinion against it than we ever found occasion to express. But we have seen for ourself, and find that we have done Mr. Paine very great, though not intentional, injustice. And we can

The operation, as we saw it, was as clear and clinching a demonstration as ever we witnessed in the range of chemical science.— There was a rapid and abundant evolution of gas from the water in the jar, with which no-thing whatever communicated save two flat strips of copper and the small tube which terminated in the jet, or burner, without any possible connection with anything between the jar of water and the burner, save the spir-its of turpentine contained in another glass its of turpentine contained in pat in mo-jar. The electric apparatus being put in motion, as soon as the air over the water had been expelled, and the exit was closed, the pressure over the water drove the gas rapidly through the spirits of turpentine, and the je beyond it being lighted, burned freely and with a highly illuminating power—not assumed to be seen in day light. A jet attached to the tube between the jar of water and the spirits of turpentine was opened and lighted, and we saw the unmistakeable flame of hydrogen, scarcely visible by day light. This pure hy-drogen was the gas evolved from the water, and could not possibly have come from the turpentine, for the current was all the while flowing through the spirits of turpentine-and beside, how could the sprits of turpoutine possibly give an illuminating flame on one side and an invisible flame on the other?

* Mr. Paine showed as every part of his apparatus, including his peculi helices and electrode, not shown to the scientific men before mentioned. We are not at liberty to explain to our readers the peculiarity their construction; suffice it to say, that he elucidate i the subject very much to our mind, and clothed the discovery with a scientific in-terest, even superior to its economical and practical. The means, and the only possible means, by which Mr. Paine exerts an agency upon the water through the copper ribbons, is a sort of electro magnetic condenser, an instrument different from those m: nu ctured by the elec tro magnetic instrument makers in only in the interior construction of its revoling believs. It consists of two sets or combinations of large permanent horse shoe magnets, parallel and opening in the same direction, between the poles of which a pair of helices are made to revolve horizontally. There is no galvaric or voltaic action in the case, and no expense whatever on these beliess but of the slightest mechanical force which is neces-cary to give them a moderately rapid revolution, they meeting no resistance but that of the common pivot and the slight friction of their poles upon metallic dises to effect the successive discharges. But the power of their simple arrangement to evolve electricity is tremendous. The electrical force compared with the mechanical cause, is like that of the wish of mater which account the whole of the mechanical cause, is like that of the rush of water which carries the wheel of a great cotton factory compared with the effort of a child who may holy the gate.

On the whole, therefore, we feel confident that Mr. Paine has discovered the means of producing an inexpensive light of the purest and most efficient quality. And more than that, we believe he has opened a new and vast field in science.

THE NEW YEAR'S NIGHT.

FROM THE GERMAN.

An old man stood by the window on the New Year's midnight, and gazed despairingly upward upon the eternal, ever glittering heavens, and out upon the still, pure white earth, apon which there was now no one so sleepless and joyless as he.

For his grave gaped before him; it was only concealed by the snow of age, -not the green foliage of youth ;- and he had brought to it, from the course of a long, rich life, only the harvest of error, sin, and disease; a debilitated body, a desolated soul, a heart full of poison, and an old age full of repentance.

him as so many accusing angels, pointing him back to the May morning upon which his father, for the first time, led him forth and showed him the cross ways of life—on the right for having the road made and in the shortest hand, the sun path of virtue, which leads to a broad, serene, and happy land, full of light, harvest, and angels, - and on the left, the mole track of vice, which lures to a dark abyss full of dripping poison, venomous serpents, and dismal and close exhalations.

Alas! The serpents hung around his head and the poison drops, fall spon his tongueand he knew now and realized the path he had Distracted by this certain discovery, with upon the cross way of life and I will chouse the right path!"

But his father and his youthful days had long since passed away!

He gazed on and saw the ignes fa'ui rise up from the moor, and glide along to the grave. yard, and sink down among the tombs, and he exclaimed, "These are my misspent days!"

He looked up and saw a shooting star vanish away in the far distance; -" That am I," sighed his bleeding heart, and serpent tongued Remorse gnawed deeper and deeper into its bleeding wounds.

His glowing fancy painted himself a prowling night robber, upon the house tops; the neighboring windmill raised its threatening arms as if to crush him, and a mask which had been left in an empty charnel house near by him, seemed, by degrees, to assume his own features uddenly, in the midst of this construggle, the sclemn chimes for the New Year's midnight floated down from the high old steeple of the nearest church, and died away on the air like the notes of a minster anthem. He became calmer. He gazed again around the wide earth, -he thought of his youthful friends, who were now happier and better than he,-tenchers of youth, fathers of joyful children, blessed men, and he cried out, "O could I now, like you, good and virtuous ones, sleep as quietly with unwet eyes, on this New Year's night!"

"O that I might be happy, dear parents, as when I trembled to the joy of your New Year wishes and prayers for me !"

Amid these feverish reminis youth, the mask in the charnel bouse, by that German superstition which on New Year's Ev sees ghosts and future events, seemed changed into a living youth. He could see no more,he covered his eyes with his hands as if to shut out the nearing vision; - the scalding tears streamed down his face, and he sighed, " Come back again, days of my youth! O come back again!" They came back,-for he had only dreamed! He was yet a youth, still with his fond parents, -all, save his errors and wander ings from virtue, was a dream! His conscience, awakened soul, had gone on through the dark days of sin, only in disturbed sleep-and as he turned awakening upon his feverish couch, he thanked God that, yet young in the by-ways of crime, he could turn back upon the sure path which leads to the Angel Land fall of light and harvest. ## Hon. Sidney Breese and the Holbrook

CARLYLE, Dec. 23, 1850. Gentlemen :- Your paper of the 19th is beore me, in which you quote from the Benton Standard that I am "out" for the Holbrook charters, &c.; and you say that if I am, I am alone among the delegates from the South. How do you know this? How is it that you are so well acquainted with the sentiments the southern members? I am in favor of accepting the release of the Cairo company, but, at the same time, not disposed to ride "rough shod" over the rights of that company, or any other. I am for doing justice to all. If that His beautiful youthful days came back to company can make the road in the shortes time, and in the best manner, and without any expense to the State, and offers advantage, well secured, over and above all other compa controlling object with me for more than fif-teen years, and I would sacrifice all my personal advantages to have it made. These fellows who are making such an a-do about it now have been whipped into its support. They are not for it now, and do not desire to have it made because I get the credit of it. This is inevitable. I must have the credit of it, for I originated it in 1835; and, when in the Senate ed three d fferent bills through that body passed three different ones. My successor had to aid in its construction. My successor had to aid in its construction. an easy task, as I had opened the way for him unutterable grief he cried to Heaven, "O give It was the arguments contained in my reports me back my youth! Place me but once again on it that silenced all opposition, and made its passage easy. I claim the credit, and no one can take it from me. As for Holbrook and his charters, I care not a straw, but I am for doing justice, and for making the road. I doubt whether you are or not. What right have you, or any others, to denounce the Carro Company, and endeavor to make it odious,

S. BREESE. Yours respectfully, S. Messrs. LANPHIER & WALKER.

It is my express request that you publish this with such commments as you may choose. We should want no better evidence than the above letter furnishes, that Judge Breese is a very small pattern of a man. It is seldom that we find anything so decidedly puerile, even from a village politician. Just listen: " I must have the credit of it, for I originated it." "These fellows who are making such an ado about it now, have been whipped into its support." "It was the argument contained in my reports on it that silenced all opposition." " I claim the credit of it, and no one can take it from me.

THE NEW YORK SLAVE CASE. - The telegraph has communicated the fact that there was a slave case under consideration, but gave none of the particulars. They are these:

On the 23d inst., Mr. W. Parker, of Richmond. Va. claiming to hold a power of attorney from John T. Smith, of Russell co., in that State, swore out a warrant for the arrest of Henry Long, an alleged fugitive slave. The man was arrested while acting as a waiter in the Pacific Hotel, and dragged before the commissioner with such haste that he appeared before that functionary with the white apron of his vocation on, not having been allowed time to put on his coat. An attempt was made to dispose of the whole case in an equally summary manner, which was defeated by the friends of Long. We notice that the case was still undecided on the 25th ult. Proceedings. were stayed on the evening of that day, by a writ of habeas corpus from the Superior Court, to give an opportunity to procure further evidence. Judge Jay acted as counsel for the fugitive.

LAND REFORM IN SOUTH CAROLINA - In abstracting the message recently laid before the Legislature by Gov. Seabrook, we omitted the following:

"The imminent peril in which our peculiar institutions are placed, thereby rendering it necessary on the part of the South, not only to protect, but to strengthen and perpetuate them, have induced me to advise the passage of a law exem, ting the homestead, and one or more slaves from final process.

"On this subject, it is incumbent on me merely to remark that such an enactment

Though " North of the Line," we should feel gratified at such an exhibition of humane policy, as the Governor recommends. It has one feature,-the first named,-that p'eases us much. Any measure that will keep the South Carolinians at home is decidedly humane. There, they think they constitute the political and moral centre of Christendom, and are comparatively happy. When, however, they emigrate—as they do sometimes, for the sand hills are not productive—they often stray into States where they discover they are no better, and not half so intelligent, as " poo white folks an free niggas."

KIDNAPPING CASE IN PHILADELPHIA .- A few days since a colored man named Adam Gibbons was seized in the street by a man named Alberti and two assistants, charged with stealing, and hurried before Commissionwith stealing, and hurried before Commissioner Ingraham. Alberti claiming to act as the agent of the alleged owner, a Mr. Knight, of Md. The Commissioner made the remarkable decision that the laws of Maryland governed the rules of evidence, and consequently the witnesses for Adam, (solored men.) who were set aside, and the poor fellow given up to Alberti, and carried off in charge of fortyfive police officers. Several of them continued in charge of him till they arrived at Elktown, Md., the residence of his reputed master, who, on seeing him, denied his identity, and the officers burried him back with railroad speed. It was satisfactorily proved that Alberti was a regular kidnapper, and he and two others, at the suit of Gibbons, on his return to Philadelphia, were arrested on the charge of conspiracy, seault and battery and false imprisons and in default of bail committed to prison. The public and the press were highly indignant at the outrage.

A SINGULAR CHILD-Using its toes to som effect .- A correspondent in Macom's county, Michigan, sends to the Detroit Tribune, the following very extraordinary incident : "Reiding an item on Premium Babies the other day, reminded me of a pair of twins I saw recently in Macomb county, Mich. The same parents have a little girl who uses her toes for fingers, and with great dexterity handles the knife, fork, spoon and cup and saucer, or the stick for puss to play with about the room. She is an intelligent child, goes to school, takes off her shoes and stocking when she gets there, instead of her mittens, attends to her studies like a good scholar. The reason of this unnatural use of the feet is the belplessness of her hands; these, like infant hands, hang uselessly before the child. Such a child is entitled to a premium."

OREGON -Mr. Thurston, the delegate from Oregon, has published a circular showing th extraordinar; inducements for emigrants to go to Oregod. The Legislature, at its last go to Oregod. The Legislature, at its last session, took measures to secure the quiet of the Indians, by purchasing their lands and providing for the removal of the tribes. A bill was also passed giving to all men, over eighten years of age, arriving and settling in Oregon, previous to December, 1850, 360 acres of land, if single, and if married, 640 acres. The bill then provides that if those single men marry in one year from the first of December, 1850, they shall receive 640 acres. White males, over 21, emigrating to the country, and setover 21, emigrating to the country, and set-tling there, between the first day of December, 1850, and the day of December, 1853, shall receive 160 acres of land, if a single man, and if marrid, then 320 acres. But the e is also a provision here, that if single men marry in one year after arriving in the Territory, they then receive 320 acres. All male minors who go the country, and settle and become twenty one before December, 1853, will receive 160 seres of land, absolutely, and if they marry in one year after arriving at majority, they will receive 320 seres. All foreigners, by filing their intentions of becoming American citizens are treated like native bern American citizens and they are only required to complete their naturalization before they get a final title. In the opinion of Mr. T. Oregon is the place bove all others for emigrants.

Usacorowa, Kri, May 12, 1848.

Ma. John Bull: Deer Sir,—For the last three years, I have been afflicted with Rheimatism of the averest character, it was at times in the intacted appropriate for the disease; but found no ranneant relief until I was induced to use your preparations of disease partills, which has entirely cured mor disease, and greatly improved my general health mere as an any medicine I ever used. I have been free from pain recognition months, and have no doubt the cure is permanent and I avonument it as the best medicine in use for heuntatism.

Notice to Females.

Notice to Females.

John Bull's Saraparilla is one of the greatest female medicines now in existence. In those numerous coses where the constitution is debilitated, the nervous energy is leseemed, when the face is debilitated, the nervous energy is leseemed, when the face is pale and coloriess, the strength feable and yielding, the spirit troubled and depressed, the health broken, mind shaken, and consequently the happiness destroyed—then Bull's Saraparille is a sovereign remedy. It assists nature in the performance of her tuty, braces the whole system, renews permanently the natural energies, removes obstructions, checks excessed, creates pure and healthy blood, and imparts health and happiness. Were ladies generally to adopt the use of this Medicine, we would see far less suffering, disease and unhappiness smoog them than now exists, health would take the place of disease, the rosy check would succeed the pallid face; we should have stalles fusted of tears, and perhaps shappy long life instead of one cut short by disease, or made miserable by conflicted suffering and affiction. At that critical period terused the 'furn of life,' which is often attended with so much danger, Bull's Karsaparilla is found for sexet a most beneficial effect. A'll Isdies approaching thus crisis, should be appeared of this fact, and avait themselves of this valuable Medicine.

MORNING

FROM OUR AFTERNOON EDITION Flax-Flax Seet "Flax Cotton"

In our article on the subject of " Plax Coton," a few days since, we stated that no enterprising Yankee had purchased the right for the States. We were mistaken in part, if ot altogether; for since then, we have learned, upon good anthority, that rights have been purchased for the States of Illinois, New York, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Vermont, Massachusetts, and New Hampshire, and that offers have been made the proprietor for every State and Territory of the Union. including Oregon. This looks better, and we may hope to see the culture of flax and the manufacture of it by Claussen's process, assuming at an early day, a prominence somewhat commensurate with the large orofits which it seems to warrant those who engage in it in expecting.

There is one fact in relation to the pe process, aside from the quickness with which t is accomplished, that seems full of promise, as respects profit, to the producer. By the old process the plant had to be pulled before the ripening of the seed; if the producer therefore, grew it for manufacuring purposas, he lost the seed-it for the seed, he los the fibre. By Claussens process, he realizes both seed and fibre, as the plant is not pulled until the latter are fally matured. In this country, so admirably is our soil adapted to the ulture of flux, it has been considered a profitable crop to grow it for either the seed or fibre. Now that both may be turned to profit, it is not unreasonable to expect that its culture will command a much larger share

The extent to which manufactured and un manufectured flax, flax seed, linseed oil and oil eake enter into the commerce of the world does not seem to be generally understood. From an Enaburgh paper, sent us by an anknown friend, we make the following extract which will serve to give those who have not paid mech attention to the subject a fuller conception of its importance than they

Its strong fibres yield thread or yara for every kind of manufacture, from cambric, however delicate—so that its fibest kind has been called "a web of woven wind"—to the lawn of the bishop's sleeves, the shirting with which we are so well acquainted, and all the varieties of bed and table lies. table linen. When its seeds are expressed, they yield the linesed oil, so extensively used in the arts, particularly for painting; and which is also frequently used in surgical cases, from its smollient nature. The seeds that remain, after obtaining the oil, are moulded into cakes, which are used to a very large extent for fattening cattle; and the man produced from bullocks fed upon it is of manufacture in almost all European count ies. At Cambray, a city of France, the beaut ful kind cailed Cambray linen was first mina rectured; and for many years England spent in its purchase, not less than £200,000 per angum. From this vegetable, too, the lace of Brussels, Whien riemes, Liste, and Mechlin, is obtained. From Russia we import annually half a million of quarters of flax seed, the value of which is £2,000,000 sterling. Upwar defined gentlemen were elected officers for the of 70,000 tons of o'l cake are annually in ported, the value of which exceeds £500,000 ported, the value of which exceeds £500,000 while the total value of the flax fibre imported for manufacturing into Ainen, sail cloths, tarpaulias, rick covers, sacking, and various other materials, exceeds £5,000,000 annually.

And why, it may be asked, should we thus And why, it may be asked, should we thus continue dependent on continental Europe for the flax which the United Kingdom is perfectly capable of producing? Why should not the nums we apend annually for oil-cake and flax-seed go into the pockets of the employers and the employed of our agricultural districts? Especially when previously-existing difficulties are entirely recoved; when there is a serious distinution of our imports; when our lines manufacture calls aloud for enlarged supplies.—
Its progress in consequence of the great improvements which have been made in machinery during the last twenty years, has been increase in the demand for the raw material; and, as a consequence, the foreign producer has been reaping a golden harvest. The imports of foreign flax have increased from 936,000 ewts, in 1831, to 1.80, 300 cwts, in 1842 the value of the increased imports being not less than two millions and a half, nearly the whole of which is paid for in money sent out

TRIBUNE! We have now before us the Annual Report of the Register of the Treasurer of the Commerce and Navigation of the U. S. for the year ending June 30th, 1851. From this document we compile the following facts

There were imported into the United States during the year as follows:

Flax seed 602,074 bn Oil 2,818,344 gala Unmapu'd Flax 21,171 cwt Lineas bleached and unbleached Linen Hosicry Tamboured and Embroidered Not specified Thread and Insertings

Total value Now with our prolife soil, the easy culture of the plant, and the increased consumption of the manufactured article that must follow the introduction of Claussens process, not only on account of its cheapening that description of goods, but from the new and multiplied varieties of fabrics into which it will be wrought, what a field for enterprise is bere presented! All that is wanting is the general introduction of the new process and the diffusion of information throughout the country touching the best mode of culture and preparation of the crop for market.

Progress of San Frances

The distinguishing feature of the prendition of our city, as contrasted with that waters of the bay, of wharves and pile supeneroschments of sand and soil. Where her freight into lighters and bonts, to be france nitted by long and easy stages to the business places of our merchants, may now be ing direct into their capacious repositories, the nanufactures of eastern looms, an of many foreign soils. The untiring enter-prise of the California adventurer has not only tamed the land to obey his bracets, but has flung a bridle over the sea, subdu nto the handmaiden of his will and his in-

The broad expanse of water which stretched into, almost, the very base of the hills, from the line of Ricon and Clark's Pubits, is now excluded from its former hold, and the site restored to the dominion of the land.— The irregular sand hills that formerly dotted the surface of the city limits, are fast yield-ing to the combined powers of man and steam, and are made material agents in the subjugation of the neighboring element, to the resistless sway of the pale faces, while far back in the hills and intervening glades, the wild chapparel and dense briers, the haunt of the coyote or rurking place of the abohabits of the primitive same ga. Thus has the modern spirit of cuterprise effected the three-fold conquest restraining the ocean, levelling the earth and reforming or copressing the savage. The growth of the city in the direction of the country, is not less rapid than the extension seaward. The village of the Mission Delores, a short time ago, some miles distant from the city of San Francisco, is now a close suburb, while the village of the lagoon, near the Preside, about the same dis-layoo, hear the Presson, about the same dis-layer, in another direction, is now being fast approached by the extending city.

The San Francisco Herald, of the 15th of March, contains the following paragraph, headed "the City of Churches"—Forta number of years past several cities in the old States have discussed the question as to which could be claim to the title of the "Chay of Churches." The general consent the palm was given to Brooklyn inthe State of New York, and Sau Francisco can in justice cliffer to be the "city of churches."

Our New York dispatches show that mess pork reached sahigh a figure as $19, and as the entire stock is in a few hands, and money easy, it is not probable that it will seafer any material reduction. The high price and searcity of beef is also calculated to switch the pork marget.
The stocks in Chicago, for sale here, are not large, and hadders have advanced their figures since our last.
